CIVIL ACTION NO. 4:23-0669

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

State inmate Marquis Valantee Tate has filed a petition for habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2254 (Dkt. 1). After review under 28 U.S.C. § 2241, et seq., and Rule 4 of the Rules Governing § 2254 Cases in the United States District Courts, and having considered the pleadings, the applicable law, and all matters of record, the Court will dismiss this case for the reasons explained below.

I. BACKGROUND

Tate is serving seven life sentences based on seven convictions for aggravated sexual assault in the 338th District Court of Harris County, Case Nos. 1513402, 1513401, 1513400, 1513399, 1512765, 1512046, & 1513398. All seven sentences were imposed on May 23, 2018. See Inmate Information Search, available at <https://inmate.tdcj.texas.gov/InmateSearch> (last visited Feb. 26, 2023); Dkt. 1, at 1-2. In his current petition, Tate brings four claims for relief, alleging that (1) the prosecution suppressed cell phone records favorable to his defense that would have proven his innocence; (2) the DNA evidence at his trial was inconclusive and fabricated by prosecutors; (3) his trial counsel was constitutionally ineffective and violated his due-process rights by failing to show Tate evidence that would have supported his defense; and (4) the prosecution falsified documents and called witnesses who gave false testimony against Tate (id. at 6-7).

Tate states in his petition that he has not previously filed a federal petition attacking the same convictions (id. at 8). However, court records reflect that Tate previously challenged his convictions in a habeas proceeding dismissed on March 1, 2021. See Tate v. Director, Civil Action No. 4:20-1917 (S.D. Tex. March 1, 2021) (dismissing habeas petition with prejudice as time-barred and lacking merit). Tate has since filed numerous other federal habeas actions, all of which challenged the same seven life sentences. See, e.g., Tate v. Lumpkin, Civil Action 4:21-0340 (S.D. Tex. Apr. 5, 2021) (dismissing habeas petition as time-barred); Tate v. Lumpkin, Civil Action No. 4:21-1106 (S.D. Tex. Apr. 29, 2021) (dismissing habeas petition as unauthorized successive petition); Tate v. Lumpkin, 4:21-0354 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 22, 2021) (dismissing habeas petition as unauthorized successive petition); Tate v. Lumpkin, 4:21-3880 (S.D. Tex. Dec. 3, 2021) (dismissing habeas petition as unauthorized successive petition).

II. DISCUSSION

This case is governed by the Anti-Terrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act (AEDPA), codified as amended at 28 U.S.C. § 2241 et seq. Tate's current petition appears to be barred by AEDPA's one-year statute of limitations. See 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1).

More importantly, this is not the first federal habeas corpus proceeding that Tate has filed to challenge the conviction.

AEDPA imposes restrictions on “second or successive” applications for habeas relief. Before a second or successive application permitted by AEDPA may be filed in the district court, the applicant must move in the appropriate court of appeals for an order authorizing the district court to consider the application. See 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(3)(A). If a pending petition qualifies as a successive writ application, this court has no jurisdiction to consider it absent prior authorization from the Fifth Circuit. “Indeed, the purpose of [28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)] was to eliminate the need for the district courts to repeatedly consider challenges to the same conviction unless an appellate panel first found that those challenges had some merit.” United States v. Key, 205 F.3d 773, 774 (5th Cir. 2000) (citing In re Cain, 137 F.3d 234, 235 (5th Cir. 1998)).

A prisoner’s application is not “second or successive” merely because it follows an earlier petition, but rather when it either: (1) “raises a claim challenging the petitioner’s conviction or sentence that was or could have been raised in an earlier petition”; or (2) “otherwise constitutes an abuse of the writ.” Cain, 137 F.3d at 235; see Adams v. Thaler, 679 F.3d 312, 322 (5th Cir. 2012). If a claim in a second or successive petition was presented in a previous petition, it must be dismissed. 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(1). If a claim in a second or successive petition was not presented in a previous petition, it must be dismissed unless the petitioner satisfies the following standard:

- (A) the applicant shows that the claim relies on a new rule of constitutional law, made retroactive to cases on collateral review by the Supreme Court, that was previously unavailable; or
- (B) (i) the factual predicate for the claim could not have been discovered previously through the exercise of due diligence; and
  - (ii) the facts underlying the claim, if proven and viewed in light of the evidence as a whole, would be sufficient to establish by clear and convincing evidence that, but for constitutional error, no reasonable factfinder would have found the applicant guilty of the underlying offense.

28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(2) (emphasis added).

Tate's current petition challenging his 2018 convictions meets the second-or-successive criteria. See Crone v. Cockrell, 324 F.3d 833, 837-38 (5th Cir. 2003). To the extent his petition re-urges habeas claims that were dismissed in his earlier federal proceedings, his claims must be dismissed under 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(1). To the extent he argues that he brings new claims that could not have been previously discovered, this Court lacks jurisdiction over his claims because he has not directed the Court's attention to any order from the Fifth Circuit authorizing the filing of his petition. Therefore, even assuming that Tate could satisfy the strict standards in 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(2) for new claims, this Court would lack jurisdiction over the claims. See 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(3)(A); Adams, 679 F.3d at 321; Crone, 324 F.3d 837-38. Additionally, based on Tate's litigation history, the Court determines that the current petition is an abuse of the writ. See Cain, 137 F.3d at 235.

For the reasons stated above, the Court will dismiss this habeas action as an unauthorized successive writ.

III. CERTIFICATE OF APPEALABILITY

Habeas corpus actions under 28 U.S.C. § 2254 or § 2255 require a certificate of appealability to proceed on appeal. 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(1); Miller-El v. Cockrell, 537 U.S. 322, 335-36 (2003). Rule 11 of the Rules Governing Section 2254 Cases requires a district court to issue or deny a certificate of appealability when entering a final order that is adverse to the petitioner.

A certificate of appealability will not issue unless the petitioner makes “a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right,” 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2), which requires a petitioner to demonstrate ““that reasonable jurists would find the district court’s assessment of the constitutional claims debatable or wrong.”” Tennard v. Dretke, 542 U.S. 274, 282 (2004) (quoting Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 484 (2000)). Under the controlling standard, a petitioner must show “that reasonable jurists could debate whether (or, for that matter, agree that) the petition should have been resolved in a different manner or that the issues presented were adequate to deserve encouragement to proceed further.” Miller-El, 537 U.S. at 336 (internal citation and quotation marks omitted). Where denial of relief is based on procedural grounds, the petitioner must show not only that “jurists of reason would find it debatable whether the petition states a valid claim of the denial of a constitutional right,” but also that they “would find it debatable whether the district court was correct in its procedural ruling.” Slack, 529 U.S. at 484.

A district court may deny a certificate of appealability, sua sponte, without requiring further briefing or argument. Alexander v. Johnson, 211 F.3d 895, 898 (5th Cir. 2000).

After careful review of the pleadings and the applicable law, the Court concludes that reasonable jurists would not find its assessment of the claims debatable or wrong. Because the petitioner does not allege facts showing that his claims could be resolved in a different manner, a certificate of appealability will not issue in this case.

IV. CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, the Court ORDERS as follows:

1. This habeas action is DISMISSED without prejudice as an unauthorized successive petition.
2. All pending motions, if any, are DENIED as moot.
3. A certificate of appealability is DENIED.

The Clerk will provide copies of this order to the parties.

SIGNED at Houston, Texas, on February 27, 2023.
